FROM

SUBJECT : Consolidated Intelligence Resources Information
System Data Submission for 1977 (CIRIS-77)

1. The utility of the Consolidated Intelligence Resources Information System (CIRIS) was again demonstrated during the past year. The Intelligence Community Staff was able to meet most of its own resource data needs and to respond directly to inquiries from the Community for internally-consistent, commonly-structured IC resources information without generating individual data requests.
2. Increased demand for such data underscores the need for sustained effort to continue to improve the quality and timeliness of the inputs requested by this call for 1977 CIRIS data submissions. The nature of user requests, together with continuing efforts to achieve commonality between substantive and fiscal processes, stimulated revision of CIRIS Data Submission Instructions. New instructions, which were made available in early December, eliminated the distinction between Communist and non-Communist worlds in geographic targetting, standardized country titles and digraphs, and adjusted reporting schedules.
3. The scheduling of the CIRIS-77 data call is designed to provide verified resource information in time to support program review, examination of issues, and preparation of the Fiscal Year 1979 National Foreign Intelligence Program and budget recommendations. I urge that you extend your cooperation to insure delivery of the requested

STATINTL CIRIS-77 input by 1 April 1977. [] Data Support Group/STATINTL ICS, [] should be contacted directly by your action offices on any procedural questions with regard to CIRIS-77 submissions.
